SCHOOL REPORT.

Another school year has closed, and a very busy and prosperous year it has been. Our schools are standing on higher grounds. They have been well attended during the past year, and with perhaps one or two exceptions, we have had very good teachers, who have entered into their work with a good deal of energy, and have worked faithfully not only to draw their salaries but for the best interest of the scholars under their care. The money you have put in our hands has been judiciously expended according to our best ability for the best interest of all the schools in town. We believe the present system of having three terms each of the two schools in the village and two terms each of the three outside districts, and a chance for all to come to the village school in winter, is the best arrangement that could be made. We have during the past year made great improvements on two of our school houses, so that now they are neat and pleasant as school rooms need to be. But we still lack other improvements for schooling in town, and that is, the people in the east district are in need of a new school house, which we hope to see built this spring, after which Greenfield will have as good places to educate her sons and daughters as any small town need to have. Nothing will give a town a better name than good school houses and good schools. Give your boys and girls a good education. Let us all do what we can for the children of today, who will soon take the places of their fathers and mothers in the world, and then with a good education they will be prepared to fill any station in which they may be called.
